

Journey to the Civilian Conservation Corps Camp

Visit the site of the former Civilian Conservation Corps Camp in Milton and journey through a slice of the 1930's history of President Roosevelt's Tree Army.

For a 4 1/2 -mile, flat loop to the former camp location, park at Shea Rink, 651 Willard St, Quincy. You'll find the trailhead at trail marker 4234 on the north side of the parking lot. Follow the green dots between St. Moritz Ponds. After almost 2 miles, at marker 4091, take a right and then a left at 4083. Follow Sawcut Notch Path to 4042 and take a left to the former CCC Camp, where a sign near old concrete foundations highlights the history and significance of the camp and the men that worked there. Follow Sawcut Notch path back, taking a right at marker 4091 to follow the green dots back to Shea Rink.
